

Rinnai Zen Gas Boiler

Rinnai are well known for their instantaneous water heaters that have impressed the NZ market for many years with their reliability, performance and great value. Central Heating New Zealand are proud to offer their premium gas boiler range into the NZ market. The Zen is a combi boiler that produces heating water for radiators or underfloor as well as instantaneous domestic hot water for bathrooms.

The high quality casing is designed to be installed either inside or outside the home as it is fully weatherproof and IPX5D rated which makes it extremely convenient for locating and servicing the boiler throughout its life. The control innovation is new to the NZ market as it is the only boiler with factory fitted wifi enabled app control from android or iOS. This also features energy monitoring and useful data to understand and control your homes heating use

The domestic hot tap water production is suitable for single bathroom houses or for one end of a larger home. The boiler can also be configured as a system only boiler for central heating. As is expected of a premium appliance the 5 year warranty gives great peace of mind for longevity of life with annual servicing.
